

CQL Accreditation & People Supported

WHO IS CQL?

CQL is an organization that provides accreditation. It helps other agencies improve services. If you could get better services, you can work to achieve your goals for a better life. These goals could be having friends, getting a job, doing hobbies, being with family, living on your own, and more.

WHY IS CQL ACCREDITATION IMPORTANT?

Accreditation with CQL can help agencies listen to you better, embrace best practices, and support you so you can live the life you want.

What Accreditation Means For You

With accreditation, your organization will have more tools that can help people in a lot of ways:

- Improving your services
- Putting you in charge of your life
- Creating relationships
- Being part of the community
- Finding fun things to do
- Listening to what you want
- Getting a job
- Pursuing goals

How You Can Be A Part Of Accreditation

Getting Ready For Accreditation

There are meetings before your accreditation. You can be a part of those meetings to help your agency get ready.

Conversations and Visits

CQL will visit you where you receive services and talk to you about your life, goals, and more to help improve services.

Accreditation Kick-Off and Wrap Up

Accreditation starts and ends with a gathering. You can join the gatherings to tell your story, how the agency helps you, and plan for the future.

Focus Groups

During accreditation, there are focus groups. People can participate to share feelings about the agency, services, and more.

“It was great to meet and chat with CQL staff!”

- Leslie, person receiving services (Community Supports Services, Inc.)